Eagle's Subscription Contest Ends Saturday Night Aug. 14

Contestants Working With Might And Main To Win The Grand Prize To Be Given

ANY CONTESTANTS MAY WIN Judges Chosen, Stage Set For Final Closing Of The Biggest Contest In Letcher County

On the 31st day of May the bugle sounded for the entrants to take their positions in the race for THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS IN PRIZES, which will be awarded by the Mountain Eagle, on Saturday night, August 14. On June 12th, when the first count of credits was made, the barrier was snapped, and the big $3,000.00 Subscription and Advertising Campaign was on.

It is true to form, the contestants started with a rush to get the rail position. In other words, each of the wide-awake workers strove to get a lead right in the beginning, and since that time there had been much conjecturing as to just who would lead the race from one vote count to another.

As in all races, there must be a finish, and on Saturday night, August 14th, at 9:00 o'clock, the judges will lower the checkered flag, signifying that the race is over, and some deserving contestant will be the proud winner of a Pontiac sedan.

Immediately after this hour the judges (who will be appointed by the contest manager and approved by the contestants) will start their final count of credits and award the prizes to the winning contestants. All contestants are requested to be present at the final count.

By 10 o'clock, the judges should be ready to announce the names of the winners, and from all indications, that is going to be one more exciting hour. It is expected that ringside seats will be at a premium on this grand occasion, as the Mountain Eagle is planning on giving one grand party for this occasion immediately after the prizes are awarded in honor of the winners, and also to soothe the aches and pains of those who are losers.

Subscriptions are coming in to the contest department by the hundreds, and if you do not get your paper the next week, please take this into consideration, as it is almost impossible for us to get every body's name on the list as soon as it comes in, and too, some of the names on the orders are so spelled that it is almost impossible for us to get them on the list correct. If you do not get the paper the second week after you have given your subscription, just drop us a postal card, giving your name, address, and who you subscribed from, and we will see that it is put on the list.

Remember, now, contestants, the results of your accomplishments during the rest of this week is going to be the deciding factor in whether or not you are going to be declared the winner of the Pontiac sedan or just an "also ran" and have to accept a smaller award when the final count is made.

At the last count made by the contest manager, the three leading contestants, Mrs. Lula Adams, Mrs. James Crase, and Cal Kelley were running neck and neck, and from the later reports turned in, there is practically no change in the standing of the leaders, and any one of them can step out in the lead and drive away in that Pontiac sedan.

Don't let these last few days pass without your putting forth that supreme effort to better your position, as it all depends on what you do from now until the close.

Right now is the time for the real hustler to get busy and go after the subscriptions, and at the same time, send every successful candidate and merchant an advertising and job card, which are good for job work or advertising in the Mountain Eagle, just the same as cash. Votes are issued on the sale of these cards just the same as on subscriptions.

No one has an advantage over you if you will go out and work. All that it takes to win is to go out and sell, SELL.

Just imagine, if you can, the joy of being declared the big winner in this race when it ends Saturday night, and hear the judges step out in front and call your name as the one who is to receive the Pontiac sedan. Do you know of anything that will be more of a thrill? It will prove to your friends and backers that you are a real hustler and a success, and they will feel proud of you.

Prince Halcomb Thanks Voters Of Letcher Co. For Their Loyal Support

To the voters of Letcher County: I want to thank each and every one of you for your loyal support in the primary election. To those of you who worked so hard and faithfully for my nomination, I extend my appreciation and thanks. The November election is very near and as the democratic nominee for sheriff, I pledge my support to the people who so loyally stood by me in the primary. If elected in the election this fall, I will endeavor to carry out the duties of the office of sheriff in such a way as to serve all of the people of the county to the best of my ability.

Expression Of Thanks From Dr. B. F. Wright Democratic Nominee

To my many friends who so loyally supported me in my race for the Democratic nomination for County Judge: I wish to express my deepest appreciation and pledge to them my loyalty in the future. I am lastingly obligated to my friends and can hold only good will for those who opposed me.

DR. B. F. WRIGHT

The Mountain Eagle's big $3,000 Subscription and Advertising Campaign, which will come to a close Saturday night at 9 o'clock, will be closed with a locked and sealed ballot box, thereby precluding any possibility of tampering with any one of the contestants.

The contestants are to make their final reports in the sealed ballot box, which will be opened by the judges after the contest is declared closed. They will immediately start the final count to determine the winners in the campaign.

The campaign will be declared closed at exactly 9 o'clock, and the count will take place at the office of the Mountain Eagle. Everybody is invited to be present and help us to congratulate the deserving winners.

The following well known local business and professional men will be on hand to act as judges: W. G. Holbrook, Emmett Fields, Oscar Lewis, and Rev. Earl Curry.

WINNER!

Townsel C. Adams Expresses Thanks To Many Friends

To my many friends: I hereby express my appreciation for your loyalty to me. The party of the people must succeed and I not only offer my support but believe it the duty of all "New Deal" supporters to rally to the standards of the Democratic Party in November.

Judge S. E. Henry Conducting Revival Meeting In Whitesburg

Judge S. E. Henry, evangelist formerly of Los Angeles, California is conducting a series of revival meetings in the Court House in Whitesburg. The services commenced Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m. and will continue on through the week.

Judge Henry was born at Cape Henry, Virginia, and states that he was born in the M. W. church. He has served two terms as mayor, one term as senator, three terms as attorney general and has had ten years on the Circuit Judge's bench. At the present time Judge Henry is engaged in the work of God.

The Saturday evening sermon will be based on the question "Can We Go to Heaven Not Belonging to the Church." Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services and all are invited to ask any question they may want to on "Spirit, Soul or Body," and the answers will be given.

Caudill Family To Hold Reunion In Blackey Sunday

The Caudill family will hold their reunion in the town of Blackey Sunday, August 15. The Caudill family is one of the largest families in the county and hundreds of people are expected to gather and take part in the days proceedings. All members of the Caudill family, and their friends are invited to come and take part in the days festivities. Remember the date, Sunday, August 15, and the place is Blackey, Ky.

ESSAY WINNER

J. W. Craft, Marion, Ky., High School pupil, was announced as the winner of the Courier-Journal State Essay Contest at the Future Farmers of America convention in Lexington last week. The contest is sponsored annually by the newspaper in co-operation with the vocational agriculture division of the State Department of Education.

Mr. Craft received a check for $50 as first prize. District winners of $10 each were Thomas Herndon, Hazel School, Calloway County; Louis Thomas, Minerva High School, Mason County; John Carr, College High School, Bowling Green, Clyde Worley, McCreary County High School, Whitley City; Gerald Royster, Roberts High School, Henderson County, and Billy Meeks, New Castle High School, Henry County.

All essays were written on the assigned subjects, "Economic efficiency and the Standard of Life on the Farm." The State Committee that judged the seven district essays included T. W. Bates, Federal Land Bank, Sam V. Noe, principal of Eastern Junior High School, both of Louisville, and Horace S. Cleveland, secretary of the Kentucky State Fair.

Cro Caudill Expresses Thanks For Support In The Primary Election

To my many friends throughout Letcher County: Having achieved the first part of the race towards the county court clerk's office I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to the hundreds of people throughout Letcher County who so loyally aided my candidacy. Without your support and aid, the race would have been useless. I pledge to each and all of you my undying loyalty to the best interest of Letcher County. To my friends and union brothers in the coal fields, I extend my hand in greeting. You know what it meant to me to have your undivided support in this election. During the next few weeks, I hope to be able to contact each and every one of the voters of the county and thank you personally for your efforts in my behalf.

Sincerely yours, CRO. C. CAUDILL

Mrs. Lula Adams Combs Passes At Home; Burial In Cemetery At Isom

Mrs. Lula (Adams) Combs, 49 years of age, passed away at her home on Stumper Branch Tuesday, August 10. Mrs. Combs was a well known and beloved woman of this section. Her husband, George Combs preceded her in death one and one-half years ago. Mrs. Combs leaves five living children, Orbin, Wiley, Florence, Ira and Burnett. Three other children preceded her in death. Services were held and interment was made Wednesday, August 11 at the cemetery at Isom, Rev. Hale officiated at the services.

Notice Of Appreciation

I wish to express my appreciation to those who supported me in the recent elections. I fought a clean, hard fight, and did the best I could under the circumstances. Since the people have chosen the other man, I willingly bow to the wishes of the majority, and now urge my friends to join me in supporting our nominee at the November elections.

Primary Election Baby

A bouncing baby boy, weighing 11-12 pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adkins of Sandlick on Election Day, August 7. The young man has been given the name of Charles Winston. Mrs. Adkins is the daughter of Jim Stallard of Union College. Both mother and babe are reported to be progressing nicely. This is the first baby to be born to the couple.

One of the hardest fought primary elections that Letcher County has ever seen, came quietly to a close Saturday evening. Up until the polls closed candidates for the various offices were hard at work garnering in the votes. The vote was fairly light over the entire county, and the crowds at the polls were exceptionally quiet.

Francis M. Burke, Democratic candidate for the nomination for Attorney General of the state of Kentucky, carried the county by an overwhelming majority, though he lost the state. Meridith, candidate for the office, who was backed by the state administration, won by a large majority. The complete vote is not as yet tabulated.

Ben W. Johnson, candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Representative, carried a majority of the votes cast in Perry and Letcher Counties, and has been declared the Democratic nominee. Johnson was opposed by Curtis Asher, of Marion and A. F. Rose of Jenkins. Johnson's majority will be found in the tabulation which is carried in this issue of the Mountain Eagle.

The County Judges race was one of the most hotly contested races in the whole primary. On the Democratic side of the fence Dr. B. F. Wright, of Seco, was opposed by the incumbent Judge, Sam Adams, of Matt Webb, and W. H. Lewis. All through the primary campaign these four men jockeyed for position and it was not until the final votes were counted that Dr. B. F. Wright was declared the winner by a majority of slightly over 200. The race for County Judge on the Republican side was won by James Crase of Letcher, Ky., who was opposed by Harry Isom of Jenkins. Crase and Wright will fight it out to a finish in the November elections.

The Sheriff's race on the Democratic ticket was in a muddle from the start to the finish of the campaign. Eleven candidates on the Democratic ticket with all of them sticking to the finish split the vote up until the winner, Prince E. Holcomb, only won by the scant margin of 45 votes.

However all of the defeated candidates expressed their determination to support the ticket in the fall elections.

Doyle Hogg, winner on the Republican side of the Sheriff's race, had a stiff fight on his hands. Sergeant, his principle opponent battled the Hogg and until the votes in the lower end of the county were counted, no one knew who might represent the Republican party in the November elections.

The County Court Clerk's race on the Democratic ticket was one to write home about. The race narrowed down to two candidates, Caudill and Dixon. Back and forth across the county they battled and the narrow margin of 81 votes told the story that Cro Caudill would represent the Democratic party in the November final.

On the Republican ticket it was a walk away for Cossie Quillen, the blind boy from Neon. Mrs. Quillen, the wife of Cossie, proved herself to be a veteran campaigner, and was able to bring home the bacon to the tune of nearly 800 majority. Quillen ran wild with the Republican party and will represent his group in the fall elections.

Al Major Remodeling Store In Whitesburg Will Continue Here

Al Major, Whitesburg merchant is busy these days remodeling his store on Main street. A few short weeks ago, Al thought that he would have to quit the game on account of ill health. However after a good rest and a vacation he reports that he is as good as new and will be able to take care of his customers in his establishment. Al carries a good line of quality merchandise and is able to take care of his customers from now on. With a remodeled store and a new vim and vigor, Al is expecting to carry his business to new gains during the coming months.

G. Bennett Adams Extends His Thanks

To the voters: I wish to thank you one and all for the encouragement and support given me in the primary last Saturday and I wish to assure you all that I shall never forget you. I have the kindest wishes and feelings for those who could not help me, I believe you were honest and did what you thought was right—but I wish to assure you that I have the warmest of friendship for you.

Again, wishing to extend to all of you my heart felt thanks and asking for the continued support of everyone promising you four years more of kind, courteous, honest and efficient service, the best there is in me, I am

Faithfully yours, G. BENNETT ADAMS

Household Questions

Removing Tar.—Tar is easily removed from the hands and clothing with lard, followed by warm water and soap.

A Refreshing Drink.—Rhubarb juice makes a good beverage of pleasing tart flavor. Clarify the juice with water and add sugar to taste. It may also be combined with fruit juices.

Washing Linoleum.—Dissolve a lump of sugar in the water when washing linoleum or oilcloth, and a brilliant polish will result.

Removing Wallpaper.—To remove wallpaper quickly, put a heaped tablespoonful of saltpetre to a gallon of water and apply freely with a whitewash brush while the water is very hot. The paper then can be stripped from the walls quite easily.

Heat the Nail.—Before hammering a nail into the wall either heat the end over a gas jet or hold it in boiling water for a few seconds. If the nail is treated in this way the plaster will not crumble and the nail will hold firmly for a far longer period than otherwise.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. ### GREEN SHAPES WAGE BILL Dictates House Amendments . . . Thousands Flee China, Expecting War . . . Housing Measure Stirs Up Senate

Edward W. Pickard
SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK
© Western Newspaper Union.

Where Was John Lewis?

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, emerged as the administration's favorite son in matters affecting labor as he was permitted virtually to write his own amendments to the house version of the wages and hours bill. The senate had passed the bill, 56 to 23, only after President Roosevelt had called Green to the White House and persuaded him to give lukewarm approval to the measure, with the understanding that the house would amend it.

Southern Democrats in the senate, led by Pat Harrison of Mississippi, bitterly opposed the bill, but their motion to recommit it to committee was defeated, 48 to 36. The same vigorous opposition was expected from Dixie's representatives in the house labor committee, but the "Green amendments" (so called because of the federation president's complete domination of the committee meeting) patched up the essential differences.

The bill, as passed by the senate, would create a labor standards board empowered to set minimum wages up to 40 cents an hour and maximum work weeks down to 40 hours. The house committee had intended to extend the limits to permit the board to set wages at 70 cents and hours as low as 35. Under Green's influence the house committee decided to accept the senate provisions on this part of the measure, but the scope of the board was greatly curtailed by an amendment which would permit it to deal only with employers who maintain "sweatshops" and "starvation wages" through fake collective bargaining agencies.

The "Green amendments" in brief are:

1. Board jurisdiction over wages and hours in any industry only if it finds that collective bargaining agreements do not cover a sufficient number of employees or facilities for collective bargaining are ineffective.
2. Acceptance of wage-hour standards established by collective bargaining in any occupation as prima facie evidence of appropriate standards in that occupation.
3. Board cannot alter wage-hour standards already prevailing in occupation in community considered, or establish classification in any community which affects adversely the prevailing standard in the same or other communities.
4. Industries are protected against prison-made goods.
5. "Label provision" of original act is eliminated to protect industry from what is considered a nuisance.
6. Government work is removed from the board's control and placed under the Walsh-Healey act.

Chairman Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.) of the labor committee indicated the bill would be brought up in the house under a special rule and speedily passed.

$700,000,000 for Housing
HAVING disposed of wages and hours legislation, the senate took up the Wagner-Steagall low-cost housing bill. This would authorize the flotation of a $700,000,000 bond issue by a United States housing authority. To meet operating expenses of the program's first year, $26,000,000 would be appropriated immediately. The proposed bond issue was cut from $1,000,000,000 as a compromise with the Treasury department, which objected to so high a figure.

The bill would aid low-cost housing projects in two ways. It would make loans to the full amount of contracted projects, aiding the repayment of the loans by direct grants if the sponsors rent rents sufficiently low; or it would make direct grants not to exceed 25 per cent of the cost of a project. Under this latter method, the President would be authorized to make an additional 15 per cent grant from relief funds, to be used only for the employment of labor. Sponsors would be required to contribute at least 20 per cent of the cost.

The housing authority would also be permitted to spend $25,000,000 on demonstration projects to illustrate to communities the benefits of eliminating slums and providing adequate housing at low cost. The projects would be sold "as soon as practical" to local housing agencies.

Over the protest of administration leaders, including Senator Wagner and Majority Leader Barkley, the senate adopted an amendment by Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) limiting the cost of the housing projects to $4,000 a family or $1,000 a room. Wagner objected, principally on the grounds that this would not be sufficient for projects in New York city, where it is believed much of the money will be spent.

Flee from the Rising Sun

WAR was still officially unclarified, but all signs indicated that Japan was making ready to prosecute a long-term conflict in North China and that the Chinese were everywhere preparing to withstand the advance of the Japanese army. Steady streams of refugees pouring out of the area while they had the chance revealed the opinion of masses of people that a great war was inevitable.

Tokyo was hurrying soldiers to the front.

In the Fengtai-Lukouchiao district southwest of Peiping, 30,000 veteran Japanese troops massed for an attack upon five divisions of China's central government army, numbering approximately 60,000. Including the remnants of the twenty-ninth army, driven from Peiping by the Japanese, there were said to be 100,000 Chinese. Both sides were well equipped with airplanes.

Further evidence of Japan's expectation of real war were the sweeping changes in military personnel made after a conference between Premier Konohe and Emperor Hirohito. Four new division commanders were named, as well as a new commander for the island of Formosa. It was regarded as significant that all of the new appointees were soldiers with extensive experience in China. The government was attempting to push through an appropriation of $115,000,000 for operations in North China.

In a desperate effort to stem the invaders, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of China and commander of the Chinese army, summoned into conference at Nanking, national capital, the warlords and governors of important provinces. Plans were made to throw hundreds of thousands of soldiers at the Japanese.

The provincial rulers apparently were only too anxious. Chew En-lai, representing 100,000 Communist troops, said his men were willing to become an advance guard for the major Chinese offensive. Nationwide military conscription was being conducted apace.

Japanese newspapers reported that a resolution to sever all relations with Japan was before the Chinese political council for consideration. The fear that gripped Nanking was illustrated by the government's publication of warnings against giving away military secrets, and the warnings which were given government officials to get their families out into the hinterlands where they might be safe from enemy bombers.

Civilians in China needed no warning. Thousands upon thousands were lined up at the railroad stations in Shanghai and in Nanking; many were women carrying children and what belongings they could not bear to leave behind. Thousands of Japanese civilians in China packed the docks awaiting ships which would carry them safely back to their homeland.

As columns of Japanese soldiers pressed forward to meet advancing troops from Nanking, there was no doubt that hostilities would continue to spread southward. It was expected a real battle would ensue when the two columns came within striking distance.

Russia protested vigorously to the Japanese embassy in Nanking against the "pillaging of the Russian consulate by White Russian ruffians assisted by Japanese." The Japanese denied that any of their countrymen were implicated and ridiculed the idea that the Japanese planned any future attacks against Russian consulates.

'Way Back When

By JEANNE

MOTOR EXECUTIVE WAS A DAY LABORER

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, vice president of General Motors, hardly gave promise to the casual observer of being executive material 30 years ago. Born in Denmark in 1880, he came to the United States at the age of twenty, with $30 in his pocket. His first job was as a reamer and riveter in a New York shipyard, and later he worked in the railroad shops at Salamanca, N. Y., repairing locomotive boilers. Knudsen had worked in a bicycle plant in Denmark, and he finally obtained a job as a bench hand in a similar factory in Buffalo, N. Y.

The result? In five years, Knudsen was manager of the bicycle factory, the Keim mills which Henry Ford bought in 1911. During the next ten years, he worked closely with Ford in the development of mass production of automobiles. In 1921, he joined General Motors, where he steadily advanced to his present position as one of the most prominent men in the whole automobile industry.

There is so much in liking the work you do that, even if offered more money at something I did not like, I think I would stick with the thing that appealed to me more. And I would be thinking of my own success in doing that. For, when we are working on things we like, we can put in more extra hours, we take more extra pains, we can do a better job. Doing the things we like, we tire less easily. We are inspired toward finding better ways, and we are able to contribute so much more than we may be actually paid for at the moment that advancement cannot fail to be rapid.

FLIVVER KING WAS A SIMPLE MECHANIC

TIME is so short, so swift in passing, we should never be at loss for how to use it. The question should not be "How can I kill this evening?" but rather "Do I need to take this valuable time for fun, or is there something important I can do with it?"

Consider the life of Henry Ford. He was born on a farm near Dearborn, Mich., in 1863. The oldest of five children, Henry helped his father with the plowing, shucked corn, mowed hay, cut grain, dug potatoes, and milked cows. Time never hung heavily on his hands. Mechanically inclined, he rigged up a small machine shop on the farm and repaired watches at night for the village jeweler. After finishing the local public schools, the farmer boy left for the city to seek his fortune. In Detroit, he obtained a job as a mechanic's apprentice and the fortune he received was $2.50 per week. When he was twenty-four he returned to the farm and ran a sawmill, experimenting in his spare time with a steam car. There was never a question in his mind about what to do with time.

His father was not in sympathy with Henry Ford's experiments, so he again went to Detroit, and worked for a power and light company as an engineer on the night shift. During the seven years that he was there he became general manager; and night after night, at home, he worked far into the morning hours in developing a gasoline motor car. Success came from his experiments at last, and in order to popularize the new vehicle, Henry Ford built racing cars and drove them himself in race after race. You know where Henry Ford stands today.

fortune he received was $2.50 per week. When he was twenty-four he returned to the farm and ran a sawmill, experimenting in his spare time with a steam car. There was never a question in his mind about what to do with time.

His father was not in sympathy with Henry Ford's experiments, so he again went to Detroit, and worked for a power and light company as an engineer on the night shift. During the seven years that he was there he became general manager; and night after night, at home, he worked far into the morning hours in developing a gasoline motor car. Success came from his experiments at last, and in order to popularize the new vehicle, Henry Ford built racing cars and drove them himself in race after race. You know where Henry Ford stands today.

His life is the story of time well used. It is an example worth remembering the next time you are wondering "how to kill time."

CHAPTER X—Continued

Si Blewey, the caretaker, a tall weather-beaten native of the hills, met them at the door. Just behind him was Jim, the colored chef, smiling.

The hall was filled with trophies of moose and deer. Gun racks occupied one side. To the left was a living-room thirty feet long and about eighteen wide, with a gray stone fireplace, blackened at the lintel, a fire of beech logs blazing in it.

Doc showed it to Hugh with pride. "Here's where we spend our evenings. Tonight they'll sit up late, perhaps a poker game or talking guns and dogs, but tomorrow night, the first day of the season, one by one they disappear up the stairs. Can't stay awake."

Hugh and Doc occupied one of the seven bedrooms. The "bullpen," a long room with its eight cots, was left for the late arrivals. They had lunch in the big dining-room with its rectangular table, made of planks with birch log supports, then set out with Si Blewey and two or three members of the club from Tryon City to reconnoitre.

They tramped up to Wolf's Hollow, to the cherry grove, and in the old orchard they found fresh bear tracks. The bears had been feeding from the old apple trees, had clawed out the honey from a stump.

After dinner Doc showed him how to oil his gun, and discussed the value of 12, 16, and 20 gauge shotguns. Hugh refused to enter a bridge game, but sat behind Rap at the poker table for an hour. Then such a weariness came over him that he went up to his bedroom.

As he undressed he vaguely wondered what Dorrie was doing. She was staying with his mother while he was gone. She didn't want to take a vacation now. The only place she cared to go was Atlantic City, and she would rather go there at Easter. Strangely enough, she seemed removed, outside the periphery of his emotions, for the first time. He felt almost no interest in what she might be doing!

At six o'clock the next morning there was a banging on his door and Jim's voice announcing: "Breakfast, Dr. Hiller, Mr. Marsh." He went on down the corridor knocking at each door.

Hugh was half dressed when Doc raised himself on his arm, grinned sociably, said, "Hello! How'd you sleep?"

"Exactly like the infant you said I would. And I feel horribly hungry. Is that ham we smell frying?"

Doc rolled out. "Home cured ham."

They could hear voices downstairs and in the yard, the yapping of the dogs as food was brought to them. The darkness outside was rifted with gray and the air from the open window, damply chill. Later when they had breakfasted and set out in twos and threes for the different locations, the sun broke through. Hugh, wearing his new hunting coat and red cap, carrying his new gun, went with Doc.

"You're liable to get a bird before I do—beginner's luck. I never knew it to fail. I hope you do. It will make you enthusiastic—a real hunter."

Hugh drew on his pipe. "Thanks, Doc. Birds or no birds, this is good enough for me." He indicated the woods, quiescent and gleaming in the sun. Something in him balked at shooting anything living and free; but he couldn't tell Doc that.

"When Tobey flushes a bird, you fire first. I'll have the second shot if you miss. We're going to the grapevines. They'll be feeding there today."

"How far is it?"

"Another mile, I think. Hard to tell on this uneven ground."

Suddenly Tobey stood still, his tail a rigid line. There was movement in the underbrush to the left, a sudden whirling as two ruffed grouse rose in flight. After a second or two, Doc's gun spoke, but he missed them.

"You didn't shoot." He looked at Hugh reproachfully. "I waited for you—why didn't you?"

Hugh gave a deprecatory laugh. "I told you I was a poor one to go hunting with! I didn't know what it was all about, until you fired."

Doc gave him a push. Still sleepy? Never mind. We'll probably see others. What's a bird or two compared to . . . say, you know I don't give a damn whether we get any."

"Liable not to—you will be handicapped from the start."

"I was going to say 'compared to having you along,'" said Doc, not looking at Hugh as he moved ahead.

Hugh's eyes dwelt on Doc's broad back. Something sturdy and dependable about that back.

"Got a match?"

Doc paused and pulled out his lighter.

Hugh kept his eyes down as he held the flame to his pipe. "Get this straight, old man—I'm not much for saying things, as you know—but your taking me on this trip means a lot to me. Think of the finest life-saving job you ever accomplished in that hospital of yours—tumor on the brain, blood transfusion—what are some of the things you do to keep people alive?"

"Amputation." Hugh's hazel eyes held a sudden glint. "Whatever you do there," he said slowly, "you're doing now for me—d'you understand?"

Doc nodded. "Sure, I do." As he walked on he whistled a few bars of "Pack up your troubles" half under his breath.

That afternoon when they came in footsore and weary, they had two birds, both of which Doc had shot. After dinner Hugh wandered outside away from the smoke-filled, noisy living-room.

He saw a small animal swimming—perhaps a beaver. The lake was black, shot with a few reflections of light from the windows of the lodge; the opposite shore was shrouded in darkness. "Amputation." The word repeated itself, clung to him.

He raised his eyes. The faint radiance of early evening was in the sky. A single star, very brilliant, very large, hung above the top of a pine. It seemed to be challenging his attention. Bright star . . .

He gazed at it a long time. Its steady shining seemed to bear a message, one that his groping inner ear translated. He felt as if he had been lost in the labyrinth of an underground cavern, fumbling this way and that—falling—hopeless. Far off he saw the light of an opening which promised to bring him upward to the sunlight once more—to peace.

It was Friday night when Hugh came home. Doc stopped his gun before the Marsh home; Hugh unloaded his bags, carried them up the walk. His mother met him at the door. "We didn't expect you so soon. Dorrie has gone over to the Lawrences."

"The Lawrences?" He took off his chambray jacket. "Who are they?"

Fluvanna looked startled. "Friends of yours, Dorrie said."

"Oh, yes," he gulped, remembering. He turned as Kezia came out of the living-room. "Hello, Kezia."

"Hello, Nimrod! Any luck?" She kissed him twice with warmth.

He was pleased. "You haven't done that since you came from school."

"You haven't been away before and I'm glad to see you, Hughie. Bring anything for the family larder?"

"Three grouse and a couple of quail—but don't ask who shot them."

Jerry Purdue sauntered out of the living-room. "Good-evening, Mr. Marsh. Have a nice trip?"

"Yes, thanks." Hugh looked at him with surprise. Was Jerry now calling on Kezia? "If you'll excuse me I'll go wash up a bit."

He joined his mother in the library at the end of the hall a few minutes later, a pleasant room with a fireplace, and open bookshelves lining the walls. She had been reading something and the book lay on her lap.

"How long has this been going on?" He motioned toward the living-room.

"Quite a while."

"Do you approve of it?"

"No . . . I gave my consent because she was meeting him secretly."

"There's Ellen . . ."

"I know." Pain was alive for a moment in his mother's eyes.

"What will be the outcome?"

"She will tire of him—or she will marry him. She says she wants to marry him, now."

Hugh lit his pipe. "They'll be damned unhappy, I predict."

He pulled on his pipe savagely. "Jerry smashing up Ellen—and Kezia wanting him to satisfy her vanity."

"I know those things, Hugh. And yet—"

"What?"

"I think that Kezia will get along with him better than Ellen. They have a common meeting ground—their selfishness makes them understand each other. Ellen has depth and loyalty; she is suffering now, but not so much as she might have done later."

"But, Mother, he won't make Kezia happy."

She turned her eyes on Hugh with a patient, infinitely gentle gaze. "I'm afraid not. And of course I want her to be happy."

There was silence between them for a moment then Fluvanna went on, "Hugh, that has been my goal in life—to have you children happy. But I am beginning to see—beginning to see"—her voice faltered—"that no parent can guarantee happiness to her children."

They both sat still and Hugh had a knocking presence that she knew . . . knew about Dorrie. "No parent can guarantee happiness," she had said, and had looked at him with compassion. Did she know? If she did, he felt sorrow that she would have his burden to bear—and a tremendous relief.

"Mother—" he said. Then stopped, gazed at her.

"Hugh—"

She opened her arms and he bent to her, put his head on her breast with aching yearning, felt her tenderness flood and envelop him.

Aristocracy Is Real

Aristocracy consists in holding one's self above vulgarity and ignorance.

Are you satisfied with the friends who choose you or do you want to initiate all your friendships yourself?

In hot weather it is not much use to try to look well dressed. Try the next best thing—Look comfortable.

MEMBERSHIP SURVEY

American Automobile Association

PERRY, KNOTT and LETCHER COUNTIES

Notice to "AAA" Members and the General Public

Perry, Knott and Letcher Counties have not been under the franchise of any Automobile Club affiliated with the American Automobile Association. However, some memberships have been written in the American Automobile Association by the Blue Grass Automobile Club of Lexington, Kentucky. On November 21, 1936 the American Automobile Association added the above counties to the franchise of the Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club as they believe this Club is in the best position to develop the said counties in keeping with National "AAA" Policy.

On a request from the Blue Grass Automobile Club the Executive Committee reconsidered the allotment of the counties and territory in question, and this is to notify all "AAA" members and the general public at large residing in the said territory that the claim of both clubs was very carefully considered. However, it was concluded that the action of the Executive Committee of the American Automobile Association of November 21, 1936, be confirmed and not reversed. This is, therefore, notice that the three counties of Perry, Knott, and Letcher are under the exclusive "AAA" jurisdiction of the Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club, with Headquarters at Ashland, Kentucky, and that no other Club has the right to conduct any activity whatsoever, or solicit or accept any new or renewal memberships in this territory.

This survey is also being conducted with hope that same will reveal a sufficient membership in AAA plus the new members we will add in the very near future, to enable us to establish and maintain a regular "AAA" Office, Road Information and Touring Bureau in the territory. This will give better service to all members and prospective members of "AAA" in Perry, Knott and Letcher Counties.

"AAA" Emergency Road Service Stations, under contract with the Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club, have been established throughout the three Counties as well as all other counties in Eastern Kentucky. A list of these stations and other information valuable to the building up of your territory will be mailed all "AAA" Members. We will appreciate your cooperation:

Base Ball!

In a game that started very slowly but gained momentum as it neared the end, Whitesburg defeated Meem-Haskins, 6 to 5 in a ten inning here Sunday afternoon. The locals seemed unable to connect with the pitching of Lowe until the seventh inning when they scored three runs added to one scored in the first and another in the eighth which tied the score at 5 all at the end of the regular playing time. Whitesburg was out-hit, 14 to 8 but managed to bunch their hits when they counted most. Taulbee hit a three bagger for the locals and scored on a fumbled throw in the seventh. This should have been a homer but the ball hit the wheel of a car and bounced back into the field. Goff singled in the tenth and scored the winning run.

Warns Vacationists Against Poison Ivy

"Once a person learns how to distinguish poison ivy from other shrubs or vines he will never make the mistake of the unfortunate woman who actually dug some up, took it home, planted it and carefully trained it over a trellis on the side of the house!" Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, who has been making a study of hot weather disabilities, used this illustration in pointing out that too frequently summer vacationers are marred through carelessness and lack of a little forethought on the part of many individuals.

"Poison ivy," says Dr. Fraser, "has spoiled many a vacation for adults and children alike. Some people are immune to it, but most individuals, particularly children, who are careless about avoiding it, are easily affected, frequently with painful results. Since the poison is common to practically all sections of the United States, everyone should learn to recognize its distinctive leaf formation. If you cannot tell the plant from other weeds, then keep out of the woods and uncultivated fields unless some one accompanies you who can warn you if the plant is present."

People who know themselves to be susceptible should avoid any contact with the plant. They should not even go near it, for it is possible to catch poison ivy merely by having the wind blow across the plant onto the individual. Dogs and cats, running through poison ivy, will frequently carry the poison on their hair and transmit it when they come in contact with people.

Stop it quickly. "If you do come in contact with poison ivy," Dr. Fraser warns,

WHEN YOU ARE FAR AWAY—Go Home by Telephone

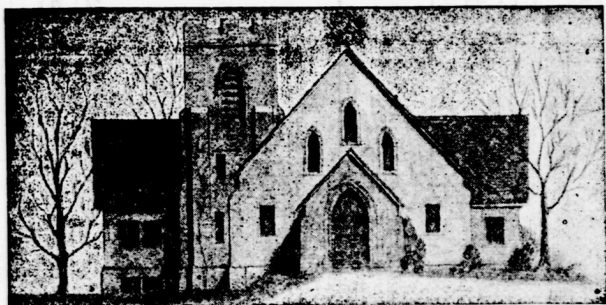

Your highway to vacationland may wind into the mountains, or slope down to the beach, but wherever you may go, voice-ways of shining copper will link you to your home.

With these long distance telephone highways ready to carry your voice, many problems that would otherwise disturb you can be quickly and easily settled.

Before you leave, make sure of your reservations by telephoning ahead. After you arrive, let the "long distance" operator keep you in touch with your home and office. Simple advice, this, but it will add a world of pleasure to your trip.

You will be pleased also by the low cost of long distance telephone service. The long distance operator will be glad to give you information about the call you want to make.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

"wash the exposed areas within an hour, using a thick heavy suds of laundry soap, the cheaper and stronger the better. Old-fashioned, yellow bar-soap that smells 'soapy' is the best. The suds will float the 'poison' out of the skin pores and that is all there is to it.

"If you cannot get soap, alcohol, dabbed on with a cotton wad, will do just as well. If poison blisters do appear, ask your doctor for a soothing lotion, and in severe cases of ivy poisoning, always consult the doctor."

N. Y. A. Organization Provides Part Time Work For 17,321

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 12.—National Youth Administration part-time jobs were provided for 17,321 students attending school in Kentucky during the 1936-1937 school year. Robert K. Salyers, State N.Y.A. Director, revealed in a report to the Washington N.Y.A. office. The employment of these young people involved an expenditure of $777,014.54, the report stated.

Of the individuals employed, 4,176 were college students in attendance at thirty-one Kentucky institutions. The remaining 13,145 were enrolled in high schools throughout the state.

The National Youth Administration student aid program is designed to furnish part-time employment for needy students in order that they may continue their education. Work is provided on projects designed and supervised by local school officials. High school students receive up to $6.00 monthly for their work, while young people in college may earn up to an average of $15.00 per month.

Types of work to which student aid workers are assigned include clerical work, research, assistance to teachers, construction and repair works laboratory assistance tutoring of backward students, preparation of teaching aids, library work, recreational supervision, and the preparation of school lunches. Every effort is made, Mr. Salyers said, to provide work which is in line with the student's major interest, thereby enabling the worker to secure experience which is of practical value.

The National Youth Administration also sponsors a work project program under which unemployed and out of school young people who are certified members of relief families are given part-time employment. These projects, which are designed to provide occupational training and experience, employed approximately 13,000 individuals in Kentucky during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937.

N.Y.A. assistance enabled 98 high school and elementary pupils of Letcher County to continue their education. This figure includes students aided through special flood and drought appropriations, Otis C. Amis, N.Y.A. Supervisor of Education, explained. Mr. Amis stated that a sizeable reduction was anticipated for the 1937-38 school year.

IX. The Holy Spirit
The Holy Spirit, the third person of the Godhead, applies the redemption purchased by Christ. He persuades and enables men to obey the call of the gospel, and dwells continually in every believer as the spirit of truth, of holiness, of power and of comfort, and is thereby the author of all Christian experience.

X. Justification by Faith
Every one who humbly relies upon Christ alone for salvation and in repentance confesses and forsakes his sins, is pardoned and accepted as righteous in God's sight, solely on the ground of the perfect obedience and sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Every one thus pardoned and accepted is adopted into God's family, and becomes an heir of God and a joint heir with Jesus Christ.

XI. The Christian Life
The Holy Spirit imparts spiritual life by the direct operation of His power, so that, being born from above, we are the children of God, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which are not the ground, but the fruits of salvation. Dwelling in Christ's people, He purifies them more and more from sin, enables them to render a cheerful and loving obedience to God's commandments, and preserves in His sanctifying work in their hearts, until at last they stand perfect in the presence of Christ in glory. Believers may at times backslide, growing indifferent and cold, and even falling into grievous sins; yet God does not cast them off, but chastens them and restores them through repentance to fellowship with Him.

Future Farmers Attend State Convention
Ten members of the local Future Farmers chapter attended the State convention last week. About 1,400 boys from all sections of the state met at the University of Kentucky for the three day meeting.

The chief speakers of the convention were J. A. Linke, national adviser of the Future Farmers of America and Gov. A. B. Chandler. Mr. Gilmore Nunn of the Lexington Herald made the principal address at the banquet Friday night. Prizes were awarded to winners of state contests at this banquet. The local chapter was represented by Chad Mullins, who received a check for $15.00 for winning second place in the district dairy essay contest. Dix Dam and Herington lake were visited on the way home. The following made the trip: Bob Day, Chad Mullins, Fred Cornett, Virgil Brown, Nash Webb, Chester Webb, Clyde Wilfong, Shelby Adams, Henry Banks, John Adams, and Jerry Montgomery.

'Shall We Dance' Astaire And Rogers Biggest Triumph

Singing, dancing and remaining their way more securely into the hearts of millions of theatre goers, America's dancing favorites, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, are costarred once more in their gayest and most spectacular screen hit, "Shall We Dance" which begins its engagement Sunday and Monday at the Bentley theatre.

The stars, who held undisputed rank as the most popular team on the screen are said to break completely away from the type of characterization they have given in the past and to offer a brand new kind of musical film. No longer portraying struggling aspirants for fame, both appear as "tops" in their respective fields. Astaire as a famous ballet dancer, Miss Rogers as an equally famous revue artist.

The engine room sole dance by Astaire is to the music of "Slap that Bass" and has, besides accompaniment by the rhythm of machinery, "hot" swing music by a colored crew which highlights chords on a bass viol. The ballet sole number by Astaire is a combination of tap and toe dancing. Another novel stunt is Fred's dance with the twenty girls, each masked as Ginger Rogers. Ginger Rogers herself enters this dance.

The romantic element in "Shall We Dance" has been stressed to a much greater degree than in any of the previous Astaire-Rogers vehicles. The delight situations that lead up to the enforced marriage of the hero and heroine involve romance on a sparkling scale.

Romance, however, is balanced by a wealth of comedy furnished not only by the two stars, but also by Edward Horton and Eric Blore, both of whom have contributed heavily to the mirth of former Astaire-Rogers films, and by two new comers Jerome Cowan and William Bisbane.

Ketti Gallian, noted French actress, and a host of other favorites are in the supporting cast of the picture which like its predecessors, was produced by Pandro S. Berman for RKO Radio. Mark Sandrich, who directed the stars in "The Gay Divorcee", "Top Hat", and "Follow the Fleet", also directed the current film. The screen play was written by Allan Scott and Earnest Pagane from an original story by Lee Loe and Harold Buchman.

Ermine Remarx

They're still counting. By the time this is published the Bull Hole will be over, flowing. Uncle Henry thinks, that if Thurston Adams, E. C. Bentley and Will Hall should have to go and be stacked in on top of the others, maybe those who don't know when to quit running will possibly get their political cravings crushed completely out. If no one had more interest in Letcher County than its politicians (both parties included) it would have been blown to tooth picks long ago. If they could get converted, die or move away what a blessing it would be. Everybody that runs for office aren't politicians. Maybe, you'd like to know what a politician is. Possibly the following poem will give our idea more clearly.

"Polly Ticks"
A politician is a thing
That thinks only of self.
To win one would actually hang
The world upon the shelf,
Murder, witchcraft or debate

One'll resort to anytime.
Even treason here of late
Is right at election time.
Of course, satan's supreme
In all of Polly's tricks,
Her cohorts soar to the extreme
In all that's politics.

Anyway to win is right,
T hear old Polly talk,
Of the world se loses sight
When she takes a political work.
She'd destroy everything that's good
She recall all of Noah's flood.
If she thought 't would put 'er in.
She'd kidnap, rob, and steal
Shed'd pawn her soul outright.
For just one chance to stack the deal
T win political knight.

That's my committee's idea of a politician. If your idea is different, please remember that we take the liberty to think as we please and the same liberty is yours, we are free think that's alright. Even though thinkers and we don't care what you we didn't believe a think you said we would die defending your right to say it. We don't burr our crupper holding back to see what the other fellows is going to say. We just move on—he'll say it any way.

Since all is over but the counting, We as ambassadors of Good Will do trust and pray and hope that officials can be elected that will remember their oath of office. Did you ever see an oath for an official that binds an officer to turn the whole county over to the drunks for two months before until the voting is over? Or take a man home when he's drunk? Or take those to jail who won't cater to your wishes and shield and protect those whom you know will truly be obedient to your wishes?

Or arrest those coming into town and fine them and let those around town take the place? These are just samples of some more of the things responsible for disrespect for law. Just a few cases in a million that can be mentioned in plain words.

Learn the address of your nearest Social Security Board office and go there for help with problems arising out of the law. As of July 10, one hundred and eighty-four field offices had been opened by the Social Security Board to bring administration of the law close to employers and workers.

IT'S no time now to dawdle around—here's August, summer's flying, that car of yours is going down steadily in trade-in value—and the Buicks are moving plenty fast!

Right now this big, silky, fast-stepping, valve-in-head straight-eight is still selling at the lowest prices in Buick history.

It's still your big chance to get a man-size bundle of thrill-packed travel-power at rock-bottom bargain rates. You can still have one for less than some sixes cost—and it's so far out in front of the others that no matter what they do next, they won't be able to match the '37 Buick for value!

So go slip your frame behind a Buick's ready wheel and head its nose out toward the long, wide highway. Try out its great power with your gas-treadle toe, give yourself over to it and let it show how it can send your spirits soaring.

And when you've sampled its mettle and learned the modest price figures, just ask yourself if it's likely that we'll soon see such value again! Yes, sir, it's a buy—the buy—just too good a buy to let slip.

So get busy—right now! Fast action is in order! Give us a ring and we'll talk things over!

"You may rest upon this as an unflinching truth, that there neither is, nor never was, any person remarkable ungrateful, who was not also insufferably proud. My Dear Emmett, Words cannot express to you my appreciation for your nice letter just received.

I felt sure you would feel that way since our families have always been closely connected. Your grandfather was my father's lawyer as long as he lived then your father became my father's lawyer and looked after his affairs until his death and I know my father admired your father and family and how he always stood by them.

And, again I wish to say that I deeply appreciate your letter and kind words and I am, and still remain, one of ## Versatility Is L. Barry. More's Middle Name!

Born and reared in the atmosphere of the theatre, Lionel Barrymore is a man of infinite talent. Actor, musician, composer, illustrator, director—there is practically no field in the art of expression, in which he has not made an outstanding mark. His latest role is in "A Family Affair," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture showing at the Kentucky theatre, Sunday, and Monday August 15 and 16.

The brother of Ethel and John. Barrymore comes of a famous American theatrical family. He is the eldest son of Maurice Barrymore, long famous on the stage, and Georgia Drew Barrymore, and was born in Philadelphia April 28th. He made his stage debut with his parents as a crying child of five.

Barrymore received his education in New York. Later, he traveled all over the world in stock companies, and shows. For a period of time he studied art in Paris. Upon his return to New York he worked as an illustrator for nearly a year.

Yielding to the persuasion of his brother John, Lionel returned to the stage where he scored tremendous hits in "The Copperhead," later made into the silent picture, "The Jest," "Peter Ibbetson," co-starring with his brother, "The *Claw," and others.

He was first lured to the screen in 1909 at which time D. W. Griffith induced him to portray a role in "Friends." From that time on in silent pictures he gravitated between the stage and screen.
When talking pictures came in Barrymore's enormous stage and screen experience made him outstanding. Under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer he appeared recently with Garbo in "Camille."

50 Year Old Liming Still Gives Results

One day Frank Melton, Larue county agent, saw a field in which the timothy was taller and greener at one end than anywhere else. It was so noticeable that he stopped to investigate. He walked out into the field to see if the soil was different. It apparently was not.
Smiling at this question, T. P. Thurman, the owner, answered him: "Yes, it is lime—lime applied accidentally 50 years ago when an old log house was torn down. There was lime mortar between the logs, and it was scattered about this part of the field and is still doing business after a half century."

The Curse of Progress

The Hard Way

Sammy was not prone to overexertion in the classroom. Therefore his mother was both surprised and pleased when he came home with the announcement: "I got a hundred this morning."

"That's lovely, dear," she said, as she kissed the boy tenderly. "What was it in?" she asked.

"Fifty in composition and fifty in grammar,"—Army & Navy Journal.

Emergency

A doctor had an urgent phone call from a gentleman saying his small son had swallowed his fountain pen.

"All right! I'll come at once," replied the doctor. "What are you doing in the meantime?"

Whereupon came the unexpected answer, "Using a pencil."

Robber

"See that man? He looks honest, but he defrauded me of half a million."

"Impossible."

"Yes, he refused me the hand of his daughter."

LONG REACH

Intimate With Chic

THE lovely flower may have been born to blush unseen, Milady, but not you. Anyway, what chance could you have of going unnoticed when you wear one of these exciting new frocks by Sew-Your-Own—not the Ghost!

Cool, Cool, Cool.

The clever new dress at the left is as young as you are, and in dotted Swiss you'll be as crisp, pretty, and cool as though you bloomed always in an air-conditioned room. A little frou-frou here, a little swing-swing there, and throughout a dainty new appeal that's irresistible. You can be certain of success too, because Sew-Your-Own has made everything easy for you in the step-by-step sewing instructions.

We Only Heard.

Maybe we're wrong, Little Sis, but we heard that this is the dress Mommy has her heart set on for you. You know princess lines that flare, and puff sleeves that give you that cunning big-little-girl look go over well with both mother and you. You may have it button all the way if you like—it makes laundering easy and it's smart. Mommy will let you choose the material if you ask. You won't go wrong on gingham, silk crepe, broadcloth or percale. So here's hoping, Little Sis.

Vivacious Version.

Thumbs up on taffeta; eyes right for pattern 1349! It's a picture-pretty frock with a knack for bringing out the best in you and your escort. It's a dream for waltz time; it's supreme for luncheon or afternoon wear. A happy idea is to cut one copy with short sleeves for now, another with the long style in a fallish fabric for that popular season just ahead.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1341 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material plus 2½ yards of machine pleating.

Pattern 1828 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. Size 6 requires 2½ yards of 35 inch material plus ¼ yard contrasting.

Pattern 1349 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material; with long sleeves 4½ yards. To trim as pictured, 13 yards of ribbon are required together with 1½ yards for the bow.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

GO FARTHER BEFORE YOU NEED A QUART

Don't worry about your car...enjoy it. Most of the annoying troubles of motoring come through improper lubrication. Take care of that and you won't have to bother with much else. Quaker State gives your car the safest possible protection, because there's "an extra quart of lubrication in every gallon." And that's why you don't have to add quarts so often.
